About the STTP

Engineering Educational technology is now ubiquitous; however, the potential of these technologies is lost without appropriate pedagogical strategies. Teachers at Engineering Institute not only need to have a knowledge of which ICT tools are relevant for education, but more importantly how to use them effectively for. This STTP programme focuses on which pedagogical strategies are effective while using ICT tools in a given teaching-learning situation. In this STTP programme, participants will begin by articulating the objectives for their course and explore tools appropriate for some pedagogical goals of engineering courses. Participants will learn effective strategies for teaching with these tools. The training programme will give participants several opportunities to apply these strategies to design materials and activities for their courses.

Main objective of this STTP is to make aware the Engineering faculty on how to reorient their teaching learning processes in context to ICT tools to effectively justify Outcome based education.

Objectives of the STTP

- To familiarize the teacher on pedagogy for effective use of ICT in Engineering education with focus on adaptation of Outcome Based Education.

About the National Seminar

Students' engagement in the process of higher education management is one of the most important parts of the Institute Process. In order to improve quality, students should participate in and influence the organization and content of education at universities and at higher education institutions. Decisions at every level of an institution impact on the students' learning experience, be it module/unit level, program, department, faculty or institution wide policy and strategy. Many Institutions reported that involving students at all levels provided a different perspective and ensured students were engaged more closely to inform how learning experiences could be better aligned to student learning needs.

Main objective of this Seminar is to make aware faculty on engaging students and quality assurance in Higher Education.

Objectives of the National Seminar

- to present insights about importance of student engagement to ensure quality assurance in higher education,
- to identify the most common ways students are currently engaged in quality assurance processes, so that it may be possible to evaluate the sufficiency and efficacy of these modes of engagement.
- to discuss the challenges or barriers institutions report experiencing in engaging students more meaningfully.
- to identify and compare student engagement practices across institutions along with best practices in quality assurance
- to generate ideas and share a set of recommendations for advancing meaningful student engagement back to the Higher Educational development and quality assurance communities.
